ANSWER SHEET

I think nobody has easy life. Everyone has to meet difficulties and find ways to deal with them. They are a part of people's life and we need to accept them that.

I agree with Molière that "The greater the obstacle, the more glory in overcoming it". I think we need to see in obstacles not terrible difficulties but opportunities to grow and improve your life. The first reason why I support this idea is that if you can overcome a great obstacle, you ^{will} feel more confident and it will improve your self esteem and make you believe in yourself. The second reason is respect and admiration from people around you, because you will look like a hero if you solve the problem which they cannot.

I can illustrate my reasons, using my background knowledge. When I was younger, I was afraid to meet new people and it seemed scary to me. I became older and I realized that my fear was a big obstacle for me and I would be happy to overcome it. Later I began to talk and walk with new people. So I dealt with my fear. I was so proud of myself when I did it, therefore my goal looked very glorious for me and achieving it gave me a lot of benefits.

The second example is my sister Kate. She was a shy girl. She wanted to open her own cafe, but she was afraid of all difficulties which she would have to face. She couldn't realize her dream, so she often complained about her life. But one day she decided to change the situation and she began to do things some steps to her dream. Kate bought a building for her cafe and started her small business. When I knew about that, I was shocked and proud of her, because she overcame her great obstacle and did what she dreamed about many years. I admire her and I think she became more confident because she did it.

In conclusion I want to say that people can do everything what they want. If you can dream about great things you will have to face with difficulties, but they will make you stronger if you overcome them.
